Prescription Discount Card

A simple way to check for savings at participating pharmacies

How to use your card

This free discount card may help reduce the cash price of many prescription medications. It is not insurance, and savings vary by medication and pharmacy.

1 Bring the card

Present the card each time you fill a prescription at a participating pharmacy.

2 Process the card

The pharmacy uses the BIN, PCN, Member ID and Group ID printed on the card.

3 Compare the price

Pay the lower available price when the discount price is less than the pharmacy cash price.

What to know

Most prescriptions

The nationally recognized discount prescription card provides discounts on most FDA-approved prescription drugs.

Family use

The same card may be used for the cardholder and family members.

No enrollment

The card is already active; no application or waiting period is required.

Important: This is a discount program, not health insurance. Discounts are available only at participating pharmacies and cannot be combined with insurance for the same purchase.
